Detailed Description of the Collection

Series I. Scrapbooks, ca. 1946-ca. 1957, 2.25 cu. ft. (5 scrapbooks)

Series Abstract/Description

This series of five scrapbooks provides an interesting view of Nashville's community, civic, and business leadership during the 1940s and 1950s, as well as social events and charitable philanthropy in Nashville. Each scrapbook is indexed by personal names, relating to a broad network of the friends, family, and social and business colleagues of Joe Thompson, Jr. and Martha Cawthon Crook Thompson, including newspaper features during their courtship engagement as well as marriage. The scrapbooks are comprised primarily newspaper clippings from the "Society" sections of the Nashville Banner and the Nashville Tennessean as well as some photographs and ephemera. Includes several biographical sources about the Thompsons, such as sources about his career with Northwestern Mutual Insurance Company and his leadership affiliation with the Nashville Chamber of Commerce.

Themes of the scrapbooks include wedding engagements, marriage ceremonies, community, civic, and business leadership in Nashville, charity projects, and various social events at the Belle Meade Country Club. Other themes include, but are not limited to, music, theatre, sports, Vanderbilt University alumni, and some news reports about the vacation travels of prominent Nashvillians.

An abstract of subject coverage is a descriptive sampling of topics, followed by a personal name index to each scrapbook. The index oftentimes cites the name of the husband for newspaper feature articles about the spouse and/or family.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged chronologically.
