Biographical/Historical Sketch

Osta Underwood was born in Knoxville and attended Nashville Business College. While working for Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Underwood completed her law degree at the Nashville YMCA Night Law School. Underwood was heavily involved in women's rights advocacy, choosing professional organizations as her avenue of campaigning. A founding member of the Zonta Club of Nashville, Underwood soon became involved in the Business and Professional Women's Federation. A leader at both the local and national levels, Underwood was an invaluable guide for such important women's issues as the right of women to serve on juries, women in the workforce and the Equal Employment Opportunity Law, the Equal Rights Amendment, Title IX, and abortion. Though Underwood influenced many women's issues, the battle to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, the peak of which occurred during her presidency of the National B&PW, was her strongest focus.

Underwood performed her women's rights advocacy while also working full time at Metropolitan Life. With her law degree, she became an expert in estate planning. Additionally, she was active in the Republican Party and the Baptist church. She retired in 1990 and died in 2002.

Scope and Contents of the Collection

The collection documents Underwood's life through photographs, correspondence, newspaper clippings, speeches, certificates, and a notebook compiled at her retirement. Her activity in various women's rights advocacy capacities is documented by publications from the Secretary's Advisory Committee on the Rights and Responsibilities of Women and the Tennessee Commission on the Status of Women. Underwood's work with both the Tennessee/Nashville and the National Business and Professional Women's Federations is also clearly documented in this collection. In addition to Underwood's activity in these organizations, much can be learned about the organizations themselves through publications such as pamphlets, convention programs, and annual reports and through administrative information such as bylaws, policy and procedure guides, board meeting minutes, contact directories, and programming materials. Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment receives strong focus in the collection with information on the campaign to pass the ERA both nationally and in Tennessee. Underwood's own statements, B&PW's testimonies and pamphlets, and articles from ally organizations and individuals appear in this part of the collection. Individuals pictured in the photographs series include Betty Ford, Pat Nixon, and Mayor Ben West of Nashville. Individuals who corresponded with Underwood include President Richard Nixon, Governor Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, and Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Separated Material

Underwood's collection of National Business Woman, the magazine of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, is located in the periodicals division of the library. Two pamphlets relating to African American women in the workforce have been removed and placed in the Civil Rights Room ephemera collection. A flier using a quotation by Martin Luther King promoting women's equality was also removed and placed in the Civil Rights Room ephemera collection. A large portion of the collection which did not pertain directly to Underwood's activities or to Tennessee or Nashville was returned to the donor.
